

Abisko – Chairlift Tickets (winter)

Welcome to one of Abisko's bucket list items. The chairlift on Mt. Nuolja is the perfect starting point for both big and small adventures in Abisko National Park.

Nuojla Offpist is a hidden gem in the Swedish mountains. With 1640 vertical feet you get never ending possibilities to find new lines in natural mountain terrain. You get to rest your legs when you ride the chairlift, gliding silently above the treetops to Aurora Sky Station, where you will find a cozy café and a big sun deck.

From Aurora Sky Station you can also start your adventure on Nordic backcountry skis. Here you get to experience skiing above the tree line with an amazing view of the Abisko Alps and lake Torneträsk. You might even dare to try the marked ski-track "Glidaren", which takes you on a long ride, in a gentle slope, down to the Kårsavagge valley, and from there down to the Abiskojärka river and back to Abisko Turiststation.

If you just want to buy a return ticket for the chairlift you can do that as well. Just ride up and enjoy a nice cup of coffee on the sun deck, with one of the best views imaginable.

Important information
Skiing takes place in two zones – either inside or outside of the ski area. Inside the ski area the ski patrol carries out daily avalanche safety work and any avalanche control when necessary. Daily information about the conditions within the ski area can be found both at the valley station and the top station. Feel free to ask the ski patrol for tips and advice. Other dangers and obstacles such as bare ground, bushes, trees, rocks, crags, sheer drops, poles, avalanche debris etc. are not marked. When the lift is closed due to opening hours, weather or technical problems, the defined ski area (see map below) is not accessible to the public as avalanche control and other work may be under way. There are exceptions on the marked ski touring trail, where you are permitted to walk up and ski down even when the lift is closed. The ski area is enclosed with poles and ropes, with several gates that allow you to enter the other zone. Nuolja Offpist's ski patrol do not carry out any avalanche safety work outside the ski area. Off-piste skiing is a wonderful experience, but it places a lot of responsibility on you as a skier. Always make an assessment of the conditions based on the terrain and the current avalanche forecast. Find out the current avalanche risk outside the ski area on the Swedish avalanche forecast website. Our ski patrol is happy to answer questions regarding both skiing and current conditions. The skiing is more intense and technical on the south side of the mountain, with icefalls, cliff drops and often a few more skiers than in other areas. The north side offers a skiing that is less steep and with more of a cruising sensation. Nuolja's more serious runs are higher up on the north side, which can only be accessed by boot packing or skinning up. This terrain is only for the experienced off-piste skier, which also means you must think more about safety. It can sometimes be difficult to find your way on Nuolja. The key to the mountain is to trust the transportation routes at the bottom of the north and south side of the mountain. Our transportation routes will lead you back to the valley station. Use your time on the lift to spot your run.

Backcountry skiing advice

Always bring avalanche safety equipment with you (shovel, probe, transceiver) and ensure that you know how to use it.

- Never stop directly below a slope, go to the side.
- Remember that you may trigger an avalanche that can hit people below you. Do not go out on a steep slope if there are people below you.
- The fact that someone has been there before you does not mean it is safe.
- Unmarked obstacles/dangers occur in the terrain.
- In the event of an accident, it may be a long time before you receive help.

In case of an accident:

Phone Nuolja Offpist Ski Patrol first on +46 (0)70 570 39 62 or dial 112.
