

Abisko – Midnight sun hike

As Abisko lies 250 km north of the Arctic Circle, there is Arctic daytime from the beginning of June, which means the sun does not set. It is still above the horizon at midnight. Join us to go to Mt. Nuolja's summit, a hike in Nordic alpine terrain under a sky glowing with red and yellow light, giving our surroundings a golden glow.

After a short walk, your midnight sun experience begins in our chairlift, gliding slowly and quietly upwards with mountain scenery as your panorama. Eventually the chairlift reaches STF Aurora Sky Station and from there, at 900 meters elevation, you will start the 2 km hike to the summit that sits at 1164 meters elevation. Along the way we do a few stops where you get time to enjoy the view and listen to the guide that tells us about the history of our surroundings. At the summit we celebrate the accomplishment with a well-deserved beverage and some snacks, and if the weather allows, we get to enjoy all this in the beautiful glow of the midnight sun. Soon after midnight we start the hike back down to the chairlift that will take you down towards Abisko Turiststation.

The hike to the top of Mt. Nuolja is 2 km long, and includes an elevation gain of 264 meters, which sums the whole hike up to a total of 4 km with +264 meters of elevation. Remember to bring warm clothes and good hiking boots as it often gets cold on the top of Mt. Nuolja, and the path usually is wet.
